

National New Heads Conference 2008
Highlights from Richard Olivier's speech – video transcript

All the world's a stage and all the men and women merely players. The court is the place where we are in power and we are operating in the old system. And the forest is where we go to learn new ways of being. That is that the work that we have done in the forest in building our community in the forest, has some impact on the field that we're working in. And when other people come into that field, they get affected by it, and finding your own balance between the court and the forest, where do you go, you know, where do you find the art, the time and nature, and the philosophical thinking in your life.

What can anyone give you greater than now. Starting here, right in this room, when you turn around. Thank you for listening and may the forest go with you.
